

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Basic Requirements

Crossroads aims at encouraging freedom of speech and thought. Contributions eventually offending the common perception of human rights will not be accepted.

Papers should be scholarly but also intelligible to the interested lay reader. Articles can fall within the comment, essay, reading suggestions, or rediscovering classics section according to the topic and depth of the article.

Length

Comments should not exceed 5,000 words, including notes and references. Similarly, essays should not be longer than 10,000 words, while reading suggestions and rediscovering classics should not exceed 2,000 words.

Submissions:

Submissions should be directed to crossroads@webasa.org, and should include:

- The double-spaced article in rtf format.
- Name of the author, with a current institutional affiliation, an e-mail contact, and a two-lines biographical sketch.
- The topic the article falls within. This will be used on the cover page, but it can be slightly modified by the board for editorial reasons. Example: in Crossroads No. 1/2004, Fabio Di Cera's Article (Agricultural Trade Liberalization and the Poor: A Development Perspective on the WTO Current Negotiations) appeared on the cover as Agricultural Trade Liberalization and WTO.

Only manuscripts conforming to these standards will be considered.

Notes and Citations:

End- and foot-notes should be used only when strictly necessary. Instead of them, reference to bibliographical sources should be included in the text. The standard format is: name of the author(s) in brackets, with the year of publication and, eventually, the page of quotation.

Examples: (Putnam, 1995)

(Glaser, Laibson and Sacerdote, 2002)

(Fukuyama, 1996, 1999)

(Fukuyama, 1996, 1999, Bowles and Gintis, 2002)

(Hollis, 1998, p. 3)

(ibi., p. 4) only where the immediately preceding note contains only the relevant reference.

(ibidem) only when the immediately preceding note is identical.

Figures, images, and tables should be placed on a separate page. A concise bibliography is recommended for comments and essays, but not for the other sections.

Bibliography

Below are some examples of bibliographical references for books, articles, and unpublished manuscripts. For sources that differ from the following, contact the editorial board at crossroads@webasa.org. Authors are responsible for accuracy of facts and citations. The editors will raise questions and supply information to the best of our time and ability; however, the journal does not have the staff to check the accuracy of quotations, citations, numbers, and facts; this must remain the responsibility of the author.

North D., Institutions, Institutional Change and Economic Performances, Cambridge, Cambridge University Press, 1990.

Festinger L., Schachter S., Back K. W., Social Pressures in Informal Groups : A Study of Human Factors in Housing, New York: Harper, 1950.

Sacco P., Zamagni, S., (eds.), Complessità relazionale e comportamento economico. Verso un nuovo paradigma di razionalità, Bologna, Il Mulino, 2002.

Luttwak E., The Operational Level of War, in S. Miller, (ed.), Conventional Forces and American Defense Policy: An International Security Reader, Princeton, N.J., Princeton University Press, 1986, pp. 211-229.

Ikenberry J, Kupchan, C., Socialization and Hegemonic Power, "International Organization", 44 (3), 1990, pp. 284-315.

Bruni L., Verso una razionalità economica 'capace di comunione', "Nuova Umanità", 126, 1999, pp. 641-666.

Ball D., Targeting for Strategic Deterrence, Adelphi Paper No. 185, London, IISS, Summer 1983.

Gui B., Beyond Transactions: on the Interpersonal Dimension of Economic Reality, Working paper 4/2000, Veritatis Splendor, Bologna, 2000.

Dasgupta P., Serageldin, I. (eds.), Social Capital: A Multifaceted Perspective, Washington, DC, The World Bank, 2000.

George A., Case Studies and Theory Development, paper presented at the Second Annual Symposium on Information Processing in Organizations, Carnegie-Mellon University, October 15-16, 1982.

Van Evera S., Causes of War, PH.D. dissertation, University of California, Berkeley, 1984.